

IMPLEMENTING BIKE PATH REST STOPS

When considering the extent of bedford's tree canopy and it's natural barrier against the sun, the path that a downtown bike path would take through the area is an important aspect. Ensuring that cyclists and pedestrians can safely navigate the trail without worrying about overheating or becoming exhausted requires bike racks, benches and rest stops be strategically placed.

This map (right) includes suggestions for these amenities, displayed as green markers. These suggestions take into account places of significance, like the dollar general, county courthouse, library, and school, as well as areas that are lacking in vegetation or shade.

Planting trees around these rest areas will not only create a safer, healthier environment by reducing the risks of
